“Songs are Stories, Too!”

A Concert at Westwood Branch Library, June 12, 6:30 p.m.,
Sponsored by the Charles H. Dater Foundation

Award winning singer-songwriter Kathleen Gibson will perform “Songs are Stories, Too!” at the Westwood Branch (3345 Epworth Avenue) of the Public Library of Cincinnati & Hamilton County on Tuesday, June 12, at 6:30 p.m. This fun-filled concert includes funny, touching, and whimsical stories guaranteed to delight the child in everyone!

Kathleen Gibson—author, family entertainer, songwriter, recording artist, and producer—shares her stories with audiences of all ages throughout the country. She has presented more than one thousand programs on topics including self-esteem, diversity, the environment, parenting, discipline, personal healing, and on living lives in service to children.

Gibson has completed extensive study in child development and family social services. She has taught at all levels—from preschool to undergraduate college courses—and holds a master’s degree in applied probability and statistics and a doctor of divinity.
