The DTV Answers Road Show to Stop at Corryville Branch Library Saturday, January 3, from 1:00-5:00 p.m.

Two trucks designed to look like giant TV sets have hit the road to bring people information about the transition from analog to digital television. On Saturday, January 3, from 1:00-5:00 p.m., one of these DTV Trekkers will stop outside of the Corryville Branch Library (2802 Vine Street) for some fun, prizes, and answers to your questions about digital television.

The DTV Answers Road Show is a part of the National Association of Broadcasters' digital television (DTV) transition campaign to ensure that no consumer is left unprepared for the February 17, 2009, federally mandated transition from analog to digital broadcasting. The DTV Trekkers have crisscrossed the country to bring DTV information to people in hundreds of American cities and towns.
