After Obama: Race & Politics in Cincinnati

Ambassador Andrew Young at Main Library and on CET's Televised Town Hall Meeting September 9

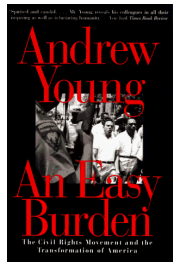

Cincinnati's Commemoration of the Bicentennial Birthday of Abraham Lincoln continues on Wednesday, September 9, with a special guest. Former Congressman and United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young will visit the Main Library for a Reception & Book Signing from 5:30-7:00 p.m., and then head to CET Studios to deliver the keynote speech for "After Obama: Race & Politics in Cincinnati," a televised Town Hall Meeting moderated by 9News Anchor Clyde Gray. The program will air on CET from 8:00-9:00 p.m. and continue streaming live on www.CETConnect.org for 30 minutes following the 60-minute broadcast on CET.

"After Obama: Race & Politics in Cincinnati" is presented by Lincoln Legacy: A Cincinnati Celebration of Freedom and The Abraham Lincoln Bicentennial Commission in Washington, D.C. to provide opportunities for all of us to rededicate ourselves to the high ideals of freedom, justice and morality modeled by Abraham Lincoln throughout his life and career.

Reception & Book Signing with Ambassador Andrew Young at the Main Library

Copies of Ambassador Young's book, An Easy Burden: The Civil Rights Movement and the Transformation of America, will be available for purchase. Wednesday, September 9, 5:30-7:00 p.m.
Huenefeld Tower Room, 3rd Floor, Main Library, 800 Vine Street, 369-6900 | www.cincinnatiLibrary.org

ABOUT AMBASSADOR ANDREW YOUNG

Beginning his career as an ordained minister and top aide to Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. in the civil rights movement, Andrew Young went on to be elected to three terms as a United State Congressman before being appointed as the United States' Ambassador to the United Nations. Subsequently, he served two terms as the Mayor of Atlanta and assumed a leadership position as Co-Chairman of the Atlanta Committee for the Olympic Games. Ambassador Young is a founding principal and Co-Chairman of GoodWorks International, an international business advisory firm that provides market access, counsel, and strategic services to corporations looking to do business in Africa and the Caribbean. He remains active in community matters, setting aside time aside to speak at various schools and universities on a range of issues, as well as participating in events that foster sound public policy, economic development, human rights, and education.
